- Be on patrol or on look-out outside the hut. The Lifeguard should never be inside the hut except when relieved for meals etc. or when they are certain there is nobody at the river. The can-buoy should be strategically placed so that it may be used at a moment's notice.  - Red flag signifies that bathing is considered temporarily unsafe
 - Red over yellow flag signifies that bathing area between any two such flags is under the supervision of the River Lifeguard
 - No flag is flown if there is no River Lifeguard on duty
